The President's Message

My first thought, of course, is to thank the membership for their confidence in electing me and to assure you that my every effort will be directed toward the betterment of our organization.

Our Tenth Convention is now history and I have no grandiose or spectacular plans for our Eleventh. It would be quite difficult for us to surpass in excellence our Tenth, or as a matter of fact, any of our previous meetings. Ours is a quality show, second to none, and if our Eleventh Annual Convention meets our usual standard and is as successful, we will be more than satisfied.

We do however have plans for this administration -- plans that include increased emphasis on the educational aspect of numismatics together with additional service to our Member Clubs -- the Clubs that are the backbone and the life-blood of this Association.

One of these projects, at present in the investigative stage, concerns an audio-visual program that if feasible will be of major importance in this connection. More information regarding this will be released providing Board approval is secured and the project proves operational.

Murray G. Singer

Editor's Note

The deadline for the next Quarterly will be MAY 1st.

Any one wishing to submit an article for publication should do so by that time. All numismatic articles submitted and that are published, will be eligible for competition in the Literary Award.

All Club Secretaries are also requested to get their respective Club news to me by May 1st.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated..

The Editor

Literary Award

In the picture above is Walter Synder, presenting the 1964 Literary Award, for the best numismatic article submitted for publication in the N.A.S.C. Quarterly in 1964. The recipient is Maurice Jensen, first place winner for his article "The First U.S. Coin". Second place winner was Kenneth Young.

There will be a Literary Award presented again at the Eleventh Annual N.A.S.C. Convention for the best numismatic article submitted for publication in the Quarterly. This is an open contest and will be judged by a Committee, to be appointed by the President.

Maurice Jensen received a beautiful plaque with a five dollar gold piece. The Committee hasn't decided, as yet, what the 1965 Literary Award will be, but it will be just as nice an award as the one received by Maurice Jensen.

WON'T YOU PLEASE send in an article?? Who knows - you may be a winner.

COLLECTORS

A definition from Webster:

“Collector” - an official who collects money, such as taxes, debts or the like - also one who gathers things together, especially objects of art, or of general interest.

As collectors of coins we qualify as collectors of money and “gathers” of objects of art.

The instinct to collect is deep-rooted in human nature. To collect or hoard is an instinct of early childhood. Children barely able to walk, will collect pretty things and toys. They will guard and protect their treasures with all the force their immature minds and bodies are capable. Collecting is also one of the last diversions and pleasures of the aged.

An advanced collector had some foreign coins he was not interested in. He gave these coins to an eleven year old boy. The boy was so thrilled with his newly acquired coins that he would not be parted from them. He refused to go to sleep at night unless his mother would let him take his coins to bed. He put them in a safe place -- under his pillow. That was several years ago. Myron is still a collector, and is accumulating a fine collection of coins.

The intense interest in collecting of coins in the last ten years, leaves a void in every facet of numismatics except the number of collectors. This increase in the number of coin collectors is not a condition existing only in the U.S., it is prevalent in all countries where the common people are enjoying prosperity. Exceptions can be made in countries behind the iron curtain. In those countries there are laws prohibiting the possession of gold or silver coins.

Collecting of coins is not a new fad. Hoards of coins have been found by archiologists that undoubtedly had been assembled by collectors who lived two thousand or more years ago. These hoards were carefully packed in tight ceramic jars, and the coins sometimes emerged in near mint condition. Usually there is only one coin of each type in these hoards.

Augustus, the first Emperor of Rome, was in the habit of presenting bright new coins from far away lands, to citizens and soldiers, as rewards for outstanding services rendered to their country.

The aristocracy of Europe have been collectors of coins since medieval times. Some families have had the same coins in their possession for more than four hundred years.

We go to the Coin Clubs and talk to a hundred members, and it seems they are interested in a hundred different facets of numismatics.

The first and most essential type of collector is the idealist. The man, woman, boy or girl, these people collect coins for the sheer pleasure of their beauty and historical interest. They collect for the joy of collecting, for the love of their coins and pride of ownership of beautiful coins and collections. These fortunate people derive untold pleasure from their hobbies.

When the true collector acquires a coin, the next urge is to learn all there is to know about his coin. Its history, the composition of the metal, the artistic design, where, when and how it was made, the history of the person whose portrait is on the coin, the denomination, the country, the era of history in which it was struck, and many other facts about the coin.

When these facts have been ascertained, he will climb aboard the magic carpet and fly in retrospect, back a hundred years - two thousand years. He will live the lives of the greatest men and women of all times. He learns of mythical gods and goddesses, their loves and lives, their successes and failures. Our heritage as coin collectors is truly a great one.

The other extreme of coin enthusiasts is the individual whose sole interest in coins is the profit motive. This collector is not concerned with the beauty or the art of the coin. Its history holds no interest for this individual, except that its history may be a selling point. He has two thoughts in mind, "how cheap can I buy this coin" and "how much and how fast will it sell?" The profit angle is his only interest.

This person, of course, is a dealer. He may be a businessman with an established coin store, or a so-called "vest-pocket dealer". The successful dealer, is an educated numismatist, as well as a man thoroughly informed in business principals and practices.

This dealer always belongs to several numismatic organizations, and he is usually active in one or more of these associations. He is an office holder and a consultant, giving freely of his knowledge and advice. This gentleman is unselfish with time and fair and honest with his clients. He is just as essential as the collector in our hobby.

Example "B" of type number two Collector: This individual is often called a hoarder. His pride and joy is to own bags and rolls and count his proof sets by the hundreds. He is not in a hurry to sell. His numismatic items are a bulkhead of security. He may sell a little of his collection or he may keep it intact for many years. He usually continually adds to his hoard.

Then there is the happy medium. The collector that likes his coins but is not adversed to making some profit. This type collector is the backbone of the hobby and the majority of collectors. No one begrudges this person, his fun and his profit.

To derive the most pleasure and profit from our hobby, one must belong to one or more Coin Clubs. No matter how much or how little experience or how long one has been collecting, there are always kindred spirits in every Club. People with the same degree of enthusiasm, resources, knowledge and interests. Many wonderful life long friendships have their beginnings in a local Coin Club. The clubs are the best source of numismatic information.

Over emphasis on the value of club participation is impossible. One gets out of his Club, just as much as he gives. If the prime interest is free coffee and donuts, that is all he gets. If he has the ambition to be a club leader, then he is rewarded with a satisfaction and a warm glow of accomplishment, that money could never buy.

Kenneth Young.

“A Numismatist’s Ten Commandments”

I. BECOME A NUMISMATIST

If you have that interest and desire to collect coins, then become a real numismatist. Join a local coin club, to trade and meet friends interested in the same hobby. Become a member of the American Numismatic Association, and receive “The Numismatist”, monthly. It knows all and tells all.

II. BE A NUMISMATIST

Numismatist is a specialist in the science of coins and medals. To be a specialist you must know something on the subject, and to know something you have to study. Read, study, get every available information on coins, so that you may know all about your coins, their history, data, statistics, values and prices, past, present and future. Then when the opportunity presents itself you will have something to say. When you are offered a coin at a price, you will know its true value.

III. BE A PRACTICAL NUMISMATIST

At some moment you will decide which coins most interest you. Specialize in them. Complete their series in the best condition available. Those less desirable coins will be replaced in better condition at your first opportunity. When you have completed a series, start another. Many a collector has started with “cents”. Don’t be a junk collector, beware of stragglers, coins which do not fit into your collection. Remember you are a “numismatist”.

IV. RESPECT YOUR COINS

Keep them properly in an album, or in cases, in an envelope, wrapped in cellophane or tarnish proof paper. Always handle a coin by its edge and not its surfaces. When you acquire a coin, put it in a new envelope, properly marked and cataloged. Save the old envelope for future reference. Never clean a proof or uncirculated coin. A circulated coin properly cleaned may fit better in your collection, and is sometimes permissible, but remember that you have fine old coins in your collection today, because the other fellow, a hundred years ago, properly took care of his, and you have a similiar duty to perform.

V. RESPECT YOUR COLLECTION

Don't envy the big collector. He was small once too, but has been at it a little longer than you have. Only the plutocrat can collect all the proof sets. You may be getting more pleasure out of your circulated Indians than he is from his Patterns. And besides, they are easier to get. Keep at it long enough and you will have a big collection.

VI. RESPECT YOUR HOBBY

Don't get excited, don't rush. You are in it from now on. Select your coins carefully and wisely. You need not fill that board overnight. When you bid on auction, don't bid them all low, in hopes of catching a sleeper, and end up with none at all. Get a coin as reasonable as possible but respect the other fellow too. To acquire a good numismatic treatise, will give you as much pleasure as adding a new coin.

VII. RESPECT YOUR FELLOW NUMISMATIST

Either have a good word for the other collector, or say nothing at all. Don't talk scandal, or knock the other man's collection, that only belittles you and gives him free publicity. He collects what he wants; you collect what you like.

VIII. DEAL WITH A NUMISMATIST

Become acquainted with reputable dealers through your club meetings, or by mail. By following the other club meetings throughout the country, found recorded monthly in "The Numismatist", and in its advertising pages, you will learn the names of those prominent. Write them, know them. They may specialize in coins you are collecting, and can help you. You will find them fair.

IX. HELP OTHER NUMISMATISTS

Learn all you can about coins, so that you can talk intelligently about them to others. If you know something of value, tell your friends at the club. Write "The Numismatist" and give your views; they gladly express theirs. Any help you can give to a new or prospective collector, will repay you many times in added pleasure. A kind word or deed pays compound interest. Bring new members into your club. Do everything you know that will be an uplift to the honorable hobby of Numismatics.

X. BE A GOOD NUMISMATIST

BE FAIR, BE HONEST, BE PATIENT. If you find yourself in a position of selling coins, do not take unfair advantage of your buyer. You're not trading horses. State truthfully what you know or believe about the condition of the coin. To overcharge may mean the loss of both a friend and customer. If you are buying, don't expect it for nothing, explaining that it isn't rare or worth much only to find, after it becomes yours, that it's "exceedingly rare, worth plenty", and soak it to the next one. If you are buying or selling from a dealer, bear in mind that he must have a certain fair margin between buying and selling to work on, so be reasonable, fair, and considerate. What is still better, be wise as to the true value of the coin in question by knowledge. By knowing through study of facts, statistics, and prices exactly what a coin is and has been priced by dealers over a period of years, you are in a position to know its fair value. IN SHORT, BE A NUMISMATIST.
